ARTISTIC STAFF. Director: Don LaCasse. Son of the French novelist Ernest Feydeau (best known for Filiniy), Georges Feydeau (1862-1921) was an actor, director and playwright. He wrote 39 plays between 1881 and 1916 and for many of those years dominated the Theatre of the Boulevard in Paris. Feydeau successfully employs the usual elements of farce - mistaken identities, characters in disguise, deception, and word play. However, it is through his masterly use of a highly contrived plot and more fully developed characters that Feydeau raises farce to an artistic level.
