A Book of One’s Own is valuable reading for men and women; everyone needs to be aware of the conscious and unconscious bias that affects women. We need more non-fiction books written by female authors: books of authority, books with meaning, books that serve. Let’s work together to make that happen. Reasons of One’s Own, by Marc Slors, is an extended essay in practical reasoning. Practical reasoning in contemporary Western societies is characterised by an unprecedented degree of idiosyncrasy and de...

A Room of One's Own, by Virginia Woolf, is an extended essay first published in September 1929. The work is based on two lectures delivered in October 1928 at Newnham College and Girton College, women's constituent colleges at the University of Cambridge. An important feminist text, the essay argues for both a literal and figurative space for women writers within a literary tradition dominated by men.
